HISTORY OF OWEN COUNTY

Cemeteries Records (Misc) genealogy file

Owen County was being settled as early as 1816 with the arrival of Philip Hart and James Bigger, veterans of southern Indiana militia service. Early land purchases were made also by Dunns and Bartholomews, also military men instrumental in Indian fighting in the old Northwest Territory. These land purchases were in the environs and on the site of what is now Spencer.

In the Gosport area, early residents included a Presbyterian missionary Isaac Reed, his relatives, the Youngs; and the Goss family.

Western Owen County had a great many German settlers, including Mennonites, and the German influence remains there today.

The county's history is extensive and colorful.

Flatboating was an important early industry with shipping points at Gosport and Freedom. The river-travel and railroad in this area make fascinating studies. There were many mills of all kinds, along with distilleries and tanneries.

Owen County also has an interesting pre-history with Indian mounds, campsites, "workshops" for making weapons and implements located in almost every township.

But perhaps the most engrossing aspect is its people. Not only those who went on to make names for themselves (and there are many), but also the commonplace citizens whose everyday lives reflect the very history of this county.

Among the many attractions in "Sweet Owen", in addition to its tremendous natural beauty and variety of landscape, is the rustic and serene atmosphere that has remained fairly unchanged from that of long ago.

For those interested in delving into detailed history, the following references are suggested. "History of Owen County" (published 1884) reprinted in two volumes in 1961 and 1962 by the Spencer Chamber of Commerce. "The New Purchase" by Baynard Hall (pen name Robert Carlton) dealing with Wayne township area in its pioneer days, published in 1840's, reprinted 1855 and 1914. Carl Anderson's booklet, "As I Remember It" published 1943, going back to 1850's. Charles Mason's "Musings" about Gosport. Edna Sinclair's "Memories of Quincy". "Archaeological Survey of Owen County" by Dr. Glenn Black in the 1930's. "Fact and Folklore of Owen County", by Dixie Kline, 1976.

These publications may be seen at the Spencer Public Library where there is a special Owen County Genealogy - History section including many family histories provided by people who are researching Owen County ancestors.

Fortnightly Club of Gosport is in charge of a museum with a vast collection of memorabilia in the Owen County State Bank of Gosport and there is an Owen County museum in the Civic Center, corner of Montgomery and Franklin in Spencer.

Other organizations of the county dealing with history are the Owen County Historical Society which has an official historian to provide material. The address is P.O. Box 222, Spencer; and a unit of Daughters of American Revolution, Major Abraham Owen Chapter.

Records in the Owen County courthouse, Spencer, are also in good condition and available for research.
